

Awareness programme on ‘Impact of Climate Change on Crop and Livestock Enterprises’

An awareness programme on ‘Impact of Climate Change on Crop and Livestock Enterprises’ was held for the farmers at Wokha village (Nagaland), on May 18, 2013. The programme was organized under National Initiative on Climate Resilient Agriculture (NICRA) project. There were 42 farmers, farm women and rural youth participants in the training. The training was imparted by experts with presentations on various topics like diseases of rice and maize and their management, effect of climate change on crop and livestock production and management aspects.

Training sessions under progress

Participants of the training